

Reduced Course Load in Final Quarter

This is used in a student's final term if the student requires less credits than the full-time credit requirement to graduate. The student must be enrolled in at least one residential/on-site class during their final quarter.

RCL start and end dates will correspond to the school session start and end dates. The student must request approval from the DSO prior to their final quarter to obtain an approval for a final session RCL.

Students should confirm with the Office of Registrar that they will be able to graduate at the end of the quarter and then email DSO if they only have one residential course which is required to complete their program.
